

Dawn

You get up before the sun
I can hear the floors creak under your bare feet
You put the kettle on And right before the steam you take it off so it doesn't scream and wake me up

I hear you make a cup of tea
Although you only drink coffee
It's just for me
You brush your hand over my cheek
as I pretend to sleep cause I don't want to wake up to see if it's just a dream

And I get so afraid to move, to breathe,
to open my eyes
What if it's all a fake, a hoax, a dream
exquisite lies
To share this home with you is heaven
I never believed in, I never believed

That after all this time, those flights and fights I stood on my own
That after all those gooddamn nights
I stayed awake,
you let the dawn in

And in the dark I hear you say, darling by the way
It's a beautiful morning

I hear you make a cup of tea
Although you only drink coffee
It's just for me
You brush your hand over my cheek
as I pretend to sleep
'cause I don't want to wake up, wake up, wake up, wake up

'Cause I want you to know
I don't need chandeliers
This house is small and old and it's ours
Winter paints the windows with flowers
Your smile makes me forget about chasing the hours

And I want you to know
I don't need souvenirs
We have the whole world right in our grasp I sit and read, your head on my lap we travel faraway lands as the rain taps taps on the roof that you built for us You wanted to make it see-through so we could see the trees through So we could see the trees

You brush your hand over my cheek
as I pretend to sleep

And I get so afraid to move, to breathe,
to open my eyes
What if it's all a fake, a hoax, a dream,
exquisite lies
To share this home with you is heaven
I never believed in, I never believed

And I want you to know
I don't need chandeliers
I don't need souvenirs
Winter paints the windows with flowers,
I sit and read

As the rain taps taps
on the roof that you built for us so we could see the skies through

To share this home with you is heaven
Now we can see the trees
You let the dawn in Darling you let you dawn in
And it's a beautiful morning